It goes without saying that everyone has necessary things for living. This topic warrants of considering my life. Without doubts, there are a lot of things that play an important part in my own life.

First of all, my family, my boyfriend and my friends have to be marked. These people support me and make me feel happy. No matter what has happened, they are always ready to be next to me. We should appreciate such relations because they are invaluable.

The second thing I cannot live without is sport. I am fond of doing sport. Missing of a training day makes me feel sad. Figure skating is my favorite kind of sport. At the moment, I am looking forward to visiting the ice palace and leaving all my energy on the skating rink.

The third but not less important thing is education. At the age of nineteen, I understood how significant the education is. I try to develop my skills in different areas. I cannot go to bed not knowing that something new was learnt today.

The next thing is nature. In my opinion, many people need in fresh air, green trees, breath of flowers, sunbeam and so on. The best place to enjoy the nature is my dacha. The time stops there and you can relax listening all the sounds of nature.

The last thing is entertainment. A great deal of staff is included in this category. I am talking about listening to music, watching films, dancing, reading and playing different sort of games. I am not sure that this category is vital for me, but sometimes it is essential.

From my point of view, this topic lets to go through your life. Moreover it helps to understand what things you must appreciate most of all.
