Who are they?

Comix spawned superheroes. It is an integral part of the culture of America. But no matter where you were born and live, we hear their names throughout our lives, we watch movies about them. People from all over the world know about them. About superheroes publish articles in magazines, write books with their participation, parents dress up children for party in superhero costumes, such as Spiderman, Batman, Captain – America, Thor, Hulk and many others.

Every superhero is completely different from the other hero. Some of them were simple people, some were born with super-abilities, some of the other planets and galaxies, some were made like that. Everyone has different abilities, such as the ability to fly, superspeed, superpower, the ability to telepathy and many others. Some heroes realize their abilities using additional sources, such as a suit, shield, hammer, helmet. Each of them has a no less powerful worst enemy, with whom the battle is fought, a battle between good and evil. Most often it is destruction, offense against the law and leaving house. But at the end of the story there is always a victory for good. This victory requires great effort, and sometimes bitter losses. But no matter how powerful a superhero, there always comes a time when he needs moral or physical support. It adds extra strength and stimulus to the hero. Support can come from any side, both from one simple person and from the whole state. And this shows that no one is alone and everyone is able to contribute to a good cause, to help those who really need it and who deserve it.

Do they need for us?

Seperheroes are fictional characters. But most people perceive them as alive. Because people need heroes to feel protected. We have already become disillusioned with politics and economics, people are waiting for some miracle that someone will appear and save everyone from evil, from injustice in our society.

Superheroes, in addition to their superpowers, laid such those qualities that every person, regardless of age, must develop in himself. It is honor, justice, duty, willpower, dignity and love. Such qualities are fundamental to personality and society as a whole.
