In fact, there are a lot of opinions about civilizations right now. And if there is a civilization, then there is progress accordingly. Remember only the Egyptian civilization or the Mayan tribe. Precisely, similar civilizations around the world have brought us to our current state. The ability to write, Express your thoughts, all this is proof of the progress and evolution of mankind. Of course, there is a fly in the ointment in our situation-this is war.

As a great man once said, "Regression for the sake of progress is necessary." It is impossible to imagine how many military actions have taken place and are taking place all over the world. But if he stops at something specific, I want to talk about the great Patriotic War. Millions of victims, the tears of mothers and children, and the feigned pride of the highest ranks. That's what the war led to. And why? Why did people start a war? My answer is simple, a power struggle. This kind of selfishness is the most terrible factor for me. Proof of regression. I can't even imagine how many thousands and hundreds of scientists died in the war. They could have brought us to a new level of life, but they were caught up in the war. How many women grieved, and how many men were at the front thinking about their women and children. The war killed their faith and took their lives. The war has become a major factor in the troubles and endless prayers of the innocent. In a word, she made a victim of many, but she herself remained in the losers. After all, it was lost, and peace came. The regress stopped, the progress continued.

In conclusion, I want to write what many people probably say. Please be vigilant. Be kind. Humanity can no longer stand another fad, mothers can no longer lose children. And men should protect their families, but they are always ready to protect their Homeland. We are all civilized people, we are progressing and developing. This is what I consider evolution.
