

image not found or type unknown

Computer has become the need for people, nowadays without a computer people cannot survive and they cannot accomplish their target. The businesspersons need computer to handle their business. Student needs a computer to do the study. A teacher required computer to get information to teach their students.

Benefits of computers include efficient operations in business and enhanced learning capabilities. Computers also bring cultures and families together by allowing people to communicate directly through the Internet with online chat and email.

Computers allow employers to store massive amounts of data on computers to conserve space and save money. Computer technology creates independence in the workplace when employers use office software to create training manuals for employees. Employers can also do their own taxes and conduct accounting practices without outsourcing jobs.

Computers in the classroom provide new methods of teaching to help students learn. Computers also create convenience by allowing students to learn from a distance. Distance learning programs take advantage of chat rooms and forums to encourage better communication and clarity.