Cities attract many people with its wide range of opportunities for education and study, work and entertainment, leisure and many other activities. However, life in the village also has a lot of advantages.

The most important advantage of living in the countryside is a positive environment. First of all, clean air, wildlife, blue sky without black smoke, clear water without impurities and the smell of chlorine ... these conditions provide a healthy sleep, excellent health and, as a result, a good mood!

Secondly, fresh vegetables and fruits grown on your own site also have a positive impact on human health. You can be absolutely sure of the quality of the products you eat. Organic food is the key to health and longevity.

Moreover, property prices are also the criterion by which the village is ahead of the city. A house in a small village is cheaper than an apartment in a city multi-stored building. There are exceptions to this rule, but they are quite rare.

Finally, the general atmosphere is calm and peaceful. Cars drive rare, neighbors don't knock on batteries, there are no workers on the street making noise during the change of asphalt... singing birds, swaying blades of grass in the wind and the sound of water in the local narrow river - these are the sounds that hear a resident of the village.

No doubt, a small village is more convenient and healthy place to live.
