We reside many days in our lives, and they are all different from each other. There are days full of gloom and sadness, and there are incredibly happy days that we remember for a lifetime. Each of these days is unique, because none of them will ever happen again, no matter how much we want to. But, which of all these days can be considered the best in your life?

Someone will say that there is no better day than a birthday or New Year. Others believe that school graduation or getting a diploma is a happier day. But for some it's the day when a child was born or when they were given a dog. Everyone has their own Day. And there is no difference when exactly it happened. The main thing is the experienced emotions that this event gave.

I also have a day in my life that I am proud to call the best and happiest. For me, this very Day was the day when I went on vacation to the Cyprus on my own. As a child, I often went to the sea with my parents, but it was within our country. There were also many happy moments, but they do not compare to the feeling when you are exploring new horizons on your own. Everything was a first for me, starting from the preparation of documents and purchase of tickets, to communication with foreign people and hotel reservation. During this trip, I met a lot of people, improved my English level, and had a very good rest.

It was an indescribable sense of freedom and responsibility. After all, I was responsible for what to eat, where to go, and what to watch. I spent a lot of time at sea, because this one of way I relax. I feel incredibly light and calm being among the sea creatures. But I also did not forget to sunbathe and travel. I saw a lot of sights and got acquainted with the culture of Cyprus. This day gave me an incredible experience.

As a result, I want to say that we must valuing every day, and building your life so that you can be happy, because only we are responsible for our lives.
