

image not found or type unknown

Week is back for another season of shows. I have taken this news from CNN rubric Fashion. When the Council of Fashion Designers of America (CFDA) chairman Tom Ford announced earlier this year that the organization would no longer publish an official New York Fashion Week schedule but rather an "American Collections Calendar," the news confirmed something bigger than an administrative update. New York Fashion Week was once the main stage for American designers, but this notion has been unbuckling for years as a number of designers have chosen to show elsewhere or outside of the official calendar dates. I hope you have really liked it

I would like to tell the news about the Spanish bar. I have taken this news from CNN rubric Architecture. I fell that is really amazing that Archeologists have uncover the remains of 12 th centure bathhouse at a populat bar in the city of Seville southern Spain. The skylights are made in the form of eight pointed stars, and the red ocher paintings make up interliking geometric patterns. I hope you have really liked it!

I would like to tell you the news about unseen Van Gogh painting of Paris goes on public display for the first time. I have taken this news from CNN rubric Arts. I feel that is really amazing that A painting of Paris by Van Gogh, which has almost never been seen by the public after being stashed within a French family's private collection for more than a century, has finally been unveiled. The painting will be auctioned by Sotheby's in Paris on March 25. Before then, it will be publicly displayed in Amsterdam and Hong Kong before making its way to France I hope you really enjoyed it!