Let's talk about who is a hero. In my opinion, a hero is a person, who possesses two main qualities: courage and compassion. Compassion is a quality with only one meaning, but so much meaning. The hero, which a hero who he is. It's not courage and intelligence define a hero, but compassion. For life – a trait is very important, a trait that stands out the most.

A hero has this quality as many others, but it is what makes him human, or I even say, his humanity. This quality, though not as important as the others, makes up a hero's character and soul, his strength, and that is the important strength of all.

Courage, fearless, heroic, – all synonyms describe a hero. All could just be into one quality: heroism.
