

image not found or type unknown

Of course, all girls in life have a lot of friends, my sister is always close to me, but this is different - this is a family. I had girlfriends who betrayed me, traded me for their Boyfriends, and just disappeared from my life. But everything has changed...

I met my best friend on the 1st year, We immediately realized that we would be friends, during this academic year we became very close and already know a lot about each other ,I could never have thought that in such a small amount of time you can become very close to each other people. We have never quarreled or been rude to each other this year, we always make concessions and try to cheer up if we see that one of us is bad. This is the kind of person I can come to on a dark night to help and who I'm sure would do the same to me. I hope this friendship will last for a very long time. I love her very much and look forward to seeing her as soon as possible after the quarantine.