I always liked taking photos. Now this is my hobby. I want photography to become my future profession.

The services of photographers are always in demand. There are important events in every person's life. People want to keep the memory of such events as wedding. Also, many people like to arrange a photo sessions in different styles. Some people take photos for a family album; others post photos on social networks or Instagram. Photographers also work for the press. Photos are as well in demand in the field of web design and design of various products, such as calendars. Photos also can be sold through photo stocks.

The photographer should be able to find the most interesting angles and to know the principles of composition. It is also important to get along well with people to avoid tension during the shooting.

Another important skill for a photographer is the subsequent processing of photos. I'm already studying programs like Photoshop. Post-processing allows you to eliminate defects in photos, adjust colors and make collages.

I like to photograph both people and nature. I really want to learn how to operate a drone with a camera, because the most impressive views are available from the air.

I think that young people should choose a profession according to their talents. My friends and relatives like my photos. I hope my future clients will also like them.
