I am a first-year student at Synergy College.

Now I will describe my usual working day. My classes begin at eight thirty or eleven fifty hours. So on weekdays I have to get up at six or eight o'clock. I wake up on an alarm. I take a shower and brush my teeth. After that I get dressed and comb my hair. Then I have breakfast.

After breakfast, I put on my shoes and jacket and leave the house. I'm going to Izmaylovskaya, and from there by bus about college.

I have four couples, though I don't often go to college, but I think I'll pass the exams.

We have a thirty-minute break in which we rest and eat.

I get home around five or eight in the evening, have dinner, check the schedule for the next day, pack my bag and go to bed.
