My home for me plays an important role! The house for me is not just my house, it is my homeland, the place where I grew up. Where I was - on a visit, at work, abroad - sooner or later pulls me home, to my city, to my friends and the family.

I lived my first 22 years in one of the most ancient and beautiful cities of the East which is called "An East pearl" in Samarkand. There is it for a long time and therefore houses here ancient, clay, low. It is so pleasant to see my home to come back here after visit of big cities, including from Moscow. First of all my city is known that in it the great commander and the governor of antiquity Amir Timur (Tamerlan) is buried. Samarkand was the capital of the empire of Tamerlan and was one of the richest cities of the world because it was on the Great silk way. Also it was one of the main centers of science of the medieval East.

I like my home. It was built still by my great-grandfather. It put all forces and abilities that to construct it. Not one generation of relatives because it is big can live in the house: four bedrooms, two big drawing rooms, kitchen, bathroom and hall. Also we have the garden where different fruit and grapes grow. There lives my family: father, mother and my niece. They will always help at a difficult moment. The house atmosphere is warmly, comfortably and cheerfully.

In a drawing room there are a TV, a chair, a sofa, a table, it is a lot of. In the evening we with a family sit in this spacious room and we watch TV, we discuss telecasts, news, movies. My little niece won't let anyone miss: she dances, sings, jumps, runs, draws on the wallpaper. In spite of the fact that she behaves is often noisy, distracts us, all of us very much love her.

I like to be at home, invite friends or just to sit in the room because it is always possible to find understanding and love of the family in these walls.

The house is always necessary to the person, he won't be able to live without it. When in the street bad weather, rain, snow or we get tired from work, we often say "would quickly come home."
