My house is situated on a small street among other similar typical houses. Despite the fact that all the houses on our street are identical, but each has its own story, character.

My neighborhood is starting to change a lot. Previously, it was just a small sleeping area of our city, where factory workers lived. Now it is getting better. The government last year decided to "renovate", so new houses, shops and a school are being built here. More and more people are starting to buy apartments in our five-story houses, then to get an apartment in new new-buildings. This is good for the whole of our neighborhood, as it is equipped taking into account all generations: from babies to the elderly. Next year we will have many shops, squares in which can walk mothers with strollers and just everyone. We were also promised to build special playgrounds for dogs and playgrounds, which will be nearby to schools and kindergartens. Therefore, I think that change is only for the better: it will become a modern, safe and quiet area with good lighting, there will be many people walking along the streets. Even now, walking along the streets of the district, everyone can recall certain moments associated with a particular place. Older people, sitting on benches in the warm season, remember how they came to noisy companies in new, at that time still newly built, houses after work shifts, how they would live in new and comfortable apartments in a couple of years where they would meet their old age. If you are going to come to Moscow, I can advise you to visit my area. We want to live here for a very long time, because it is a good place to grow up our children. Before all the changes, it was a criminal area.

If one day you are planning to move to live in my city, I can advise you to become my neighbor. You will never regret it.
