

image not found or type unknown

Today social networks are available to everyone regardless of their place of residence and age. With their help you can make a new acquaintance, meet old friends and learn a lot of useful information. They give their users positive emotions and opportunities but at the same time they carry dangers.

First, we will determine the advantages and understand why there is so drawn?

Social networks is one of the easiest ways to talk to all your friends and family in one day. It is easy and affordable, does not require a lot of time and costs, as calls, especially if relatives are abroad. Social networks are an opportunity to meet new people, find your soul mate and friends. They bring together, allow you to get acquainted with anyone without difficulties. To do this simply write to the person you are interested in. The truth is not the fact that he will answer but the chances are always there.

You can meet and communicate with people from different cities and even countries! There are no borders or barriers. The only thing that can be useful - knowledge of the language. At least just English but ideally the native language of the interlocutor. These unique opportunities can only be good. Many people want to go abroad. Social networks make it possible to establish international contacts, learn from local residents what to take with you, what is the climate there, where to go. Many even make friends in other countries and go on vacation to their homes. Here you can really relax after a hard day's work without spending anything. Entertaining games, interesting information, nice people - what else do you need for a good evening?

You can be anyone here, not just who you are in real life. Some people are shy about their appearance, others want to be superheroes, there are no faces on the Internet and this allows you to become for a short time what you wanted to be. In the news feed, which is available in almost all social networks, you can find the latest news in different areas of interest in life, as well as learn something new. They often spread useful tips, recipes, interesting information.

Currently, it is quite possible to make money on social networks. If you are popular, your page is in great demand, then you can earn good money.

As you can see, there are quite a lot of advantages, now let's deal with the disadvantages, behind which lies the danger of social networks.

It is possible that the advantages may be a disadvantage. For example, any created image can be just a fiction. There is no guarantee that the person you like is real, that his avatar is not fictional and not edited beyond recognition. Through social networks, you can meet many people. Scammers, criminals-who are not here. And on such "fishing rods" bite both adults and children!

Here you can add and remove friends by simply pressing the keys, any conversation can be started and easily interrupted, avoid unnecessary dating, ignore those who are not pleasant. Life is more complicated. It is not always possible to express an opinion directly, sometimes it is necessary to remain silent, endure a boring party. After the "freedom" of the internet, it is difficult to adapt to reality - this causes children, teenagers and adults difficulties in communicating. This leads to the development of phobias. They are afraid to make real acquaintances.

And another negative point: time at the computer visually slows down. An hour may seem like five minutes. Not infrequently there is a negative impact of this on real life and human activity: the lack of a healthy lifestyle, lower grades at school, problems with real friends and family.

Social networks are fun! Like at a big and noisy party and always in a comfortable chair in front of the computer. You can meet, communicate, study, play and no one will even know if you are a real person. But the Internet should not overshadow real life and real, not virtual walks and pastimes.