Sooner or later, everyone should think about their future profession. It is always difficult to make the right decision and so easy to make a mistake! Of course, some people know exactly who they want to be from childhood. For example, my friend always knew exactly what would become a designer. He attends special courses and tries to develop in this area. As for me, I want to move in the sports field. I like a lot of things, and I am well versed in most subjects. And many professions seem interesting to me. Most of all I like to play sports, and three years ago I started thinking about a career in sports management. In my opinion, this is very interesting. Upon graduation from College I will have a lot of different directions in which I will be able to Express themselves and reveal all their potential. Starting from his beznes in the field of sports and ending with the work of a fitness coach. To date, I have not yet made a final decision in which direction I will develop, but I know for sure that everything will work out for me. I'm not a very permanent person, I have a lot of Hobbies, and maybe after a while I will have new ideas. All I know is that my job should be to do sports. Now I think a career in sports management is perfect for me, but who knows what might happen next.
