Our planet is full of wonderful things. There are huge majestic mountains and tiny birds, amazing gems and antique buildings. Lots of beautiful things are made by people, even more of them are made by the nature.

Some may think that the most beautiful thing in the world is one of architectural monuments, other find flowers or animals the most beautiful. In my opinion the most gorgeous thing on the Earth is an ocean.

The ocean takes the biggest territory of our planet. People are dreaming to get warm at one parts of the ocean and are terrified by the thought to find themselves in other, more dangerous, parts of it. Ocean is alive. It has the soul and own character. It can be like a paradise with calm turquoise water, beautiful fishes in, white sand and palms on the coast. But time after time ocean can be cold moody and unfriendly, with black waters and hungry waves which are ready to kill anything on their way.

I traveled on a tourist trip to the ocean, saw with my own eyes how beautiful the ocean is, and I'm sure that it deserves to be called the most beautiful thing in the world. Water gives life and it can also take the life away. So people should not lose the same trembling attitude to the ocean like they had hundreds of years ago. Only if we care for the ocean good enough, it will continue giving life to all of the creatures in the world and admire us with its beauty!
