I think right now, at a time like this, superheroes are doctors. I work in a hospital myself and we save lives every day. The work of a doctor is not easy. Doctors are people who provide the first aid when needed. People that I find really helpful are nurses. Doctors probably earn more money and they need to stay longer, but nurses are their first helpers. No doctor can do without a nurse. Recovery from the disease can take a long time. Much depends on the severity of the disease and the effect that the treatment has on the body. And first of all, people turn to doctors for help. Therefore, doctors are our superheroes!
