Travelling is an important part of our lives. This is not only my opinion; many people say it. And of course I completely agree with them.

I have never meet a person who wouldn't to see interesting new places, another towns and countries. Travelling broadens mind, brings new impressions and makes our life brighter. So it is not surprising that travelling is becoming more and more popular hobby. Especially in the 21 century, when it's rather easy to travel to any point of our planet. We can spend a weekend in Madrid or Berlin, and it is not difficult.

Today there are many ways of travelling. People travel to different countries and cities by plane, by train, by bus, by car and even on foot. Everyone chooses for himself the most comfortable, convenient and cheap method of travelling. As for me, I prefer travelling by train. I think this way of travelling has its own unique atmosphere. You know, there is something romantic in the train noise and boundless landscape outside the window. In addition, train is rather cheap type of transport.

Last time I travelled by train to Prague. It was last summer and I went there with my girlfriend. We spent 7 days in Prague and got a lot pleasant experiences. We walked around the city, visited local castles, went to the museums and took photos with various attractions. Also we admired the Czech nature. These mountains can't be described in words! Everyone should see them for himself.

So, travelling is one of the best ways to spend a holiday and to know something new. Moreover, it gives us an opportunity to meet new interesting people, learn new languages and develop our skills. That's why I consider travel an important part of my life.
