It was a wonderful trip. My hotel was in Pattaya it is a tourism city.

I came to Thailand for two weeks. During this time I managed to lie down on the beach and visit many excursions. I even visited Bangkok and had dinner at a restaurant at an altitude of three hundred and ten meters! Also from the memorable excursions was a trip to the island. There was an amazing sunset and a show of lights! I also visited a huge number of other excursions. Crocodile farm and zoo where the owners are not people but animals as well as a trip to Cambodia and climbing a waterfall from seven levels! And what emotions from riding on elephants!

In the year I visited Thailand there were no holidays due to the death of their king. I was very imbued with their sorrow when I found out about his life story and how much he had done for such a wonderful country. But despite this I really liked the trip and I look forward to a new one!
