I'm pretty sure that in order to have a good job, you need to know foreign languages. The most common languages in the world are Chinese, Spanish, English and other languages. But every educated person in the world speaks English, because it is the language of communication, business, science and culture.

English is now the most important and most widely spoken language in the world. It is the official language in five countries: the United Kingdom, Canada, the United States, Australia and New Zealand.

English is one of the six official and working languages of the United Nations. It is the second working language in the European Union. In many Asian and African countries, such as India or Egypt, in the former British colonies, in addition to their native language, people speak English. English is also spoken in Europe. English is spoken almost all over the world.

Russia maintains relations with many countries. More and more direct contacts are established with the countries of Europe, the USA, the UK, Canada and other English-speaking countries.

Hundreds of joint ventures appeared in every city and town of Russia. In addition, many foreign delegations come to our country. Our businessmen, tourists, experts often go abroad. As I have already noted, English is the language of international communication. That is why it is so important to learn English.

Now foreign languages are studied in different ways. Foreign language study groups are organized in enterprises, in the offices of large companies, in educational institutions, in research institutes.

I think that the English language is worthy of study. Why do lawyers need to speak English? The answer is simple. If you have chosen the profession of an ordinary lawyer who works in government, then you need English purely for General development. If you want to become an international lawyer, then knowledge of the language will be very useful to you in working with original documents.

There are schools that specialize in learning foreign languages. Their students study a foreign language every day. But such schools are few. In most schools, foreign language lessons are only given once or twice a week. It is impossible to improve in any foreign language under such conditions. Therefore, those who want to improve their knowledge should go to additional classes.
