Hi Katherine,

What's up? It's ages since we saw each other the last time at Tom's party (btw, here are some photos from that perfect evening). What have you been up to? What new movies have you seen since then? How are your exams? Do you have enough time to prepare?

I'm really sorry for not getting in touch for so long. Plenty of things have happened actually, so that I was extremely busy trying to cope with them.

I'm now back to my day-to-day life and I spend lots of time checking all the correspondence and working.

Remember, we've discussed some mystical and picturesque places of our planet? Well, last month I had the most wonderful guided tour to one of such places. I have visited one of the famous Standing Stones - Stonehenge. These stone monuments always attracted me, so I can say that finally my dream has come true. I had an amazing time there. I've learned that scientists discovered that there was a correlation between the architecture of the site and the positions of the sun and moon at Stonehenge. Can you imagine that? The atmosphere of magic and mystery was overwhelming! My happiness was overwhelming, too!

For me the most interesting part of the trip was a lecture about the history of Stonehenge. Standing there and imagining all that sacred rituals gave me shivers. It was a high-place of worship, a sanctuary, where a name of Druids still remains. I took loads of pictures and I will definitely show you all of them, so get prepared! You really should visit this center of Druidic rites. I'm quite sure that you'll love it as much as I did!

All for now - email me soon and let me know how you are getting with your neighbor you've told me about! Your stories always give me so much fun!

Best wishes

Eugenia
