

image not found or type unknown

Now is the time when it is important not to stand still, a time when technology and medicine are developing with great speed. We need people who will continue to develop and improve this activity. Those are the people I consider heroes.

My story is about real people , such as scientists and doctors. Heroes-doctors treat and save people's lives , and the characters-scientists are developing new technologies for medicine, create things that make life easier, make the world interesting and diverse. Such people is a rarity, that they need the state to invest a lot of money. Only talented people can be scientists and doctors, I will always be admired. When I was a child I dreamed of becoming a scientist, but when rose realized that this is hard work. Many dreamt of becoming doctors, treated toys, dolls. And when many years have passed stopped to think about the medical profession and chose the profession with less knowledge and less risk.

I believe that the profession of a scientist and a doctor, worthy of respect, and the highest rewards. This is a huge human labor. It his mind, his knowledge and skills to develop and improve the world.